Han Jiang Xue Illustration — zcool.com.cn/u/ZMzY4MTA2NA==

Richly ornamented illustration that treats zodiac and mythical animals with the dignity of imperial court figures — gold-accented, densely decorated, and equally comfortable in award-winning fine illustration or clean commercial product photography.

1 Visual DNA

Gold-accented density | Animals-in-imperial-regalia | Ornate framing | Cloisonné / gongbi craft | Dual illustration+product design

2 Portfolio Evidence

10 sampled cover images, acquired 2026-08-22 via anonymous browser session (no login, no WAF evasion), spanning toy/IP, commercial illustration, Chinese cultural illustration, craft reinterpretation, and packaging.

3 Color Language

Gold as a consistent premium accent across 6 of 10 works, regardless of otherwise-different technique. Saturated cloisonné blue pairs with gold in the craft-reinterpretation pieces.

Swatches are approximate visual reads, not claimed production colors.

4 Typography

Theatrical staged type

English display type ("DUO CONCERT") inside an ornate curtain-and-gold-border frame.

5 Composition

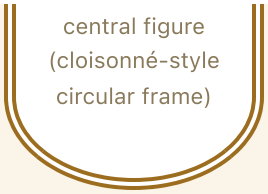

GENERATED DIAGRAM — COMPOSITION MODES ACROSS THE 10 WORKS, NOT A SOURCE IMAGE

6 Shape & Graphic Language

7 Imagery / Illustration

Technique range is wide and deliberate: meticulous gongbi fine linework (hjx_02), Dunhuang-inspired stipple/pointillism (hjx_03, single instance), cloisonné/enamel-craft rendering (hjx_04, 07), watercolor-ink character illustration (hjx_05, 06), and looser ink-wash brushwork (hjx_09) — plus a separate, distinct competency in real product photography (hjx_10). Decorative density is uniformly high across illustration works.

7b Character / IP & Cultural-Product Language

- Character/IP language: zodiac/regional animals personified as dignified characters, not generic mascots (01, 05, 06).
- Facial/body stylization: soft, rounded, large-eyed, gentle rather than fierce — even for guardian creatures (01, 05, 06).
- Traditional motifs: dragon, phoenix, cloud, wave, crane patterns recur (02, 04, 07, 08).
- Decorative density: high across nearly the entire illustrated sample, not an occasional flourish.
- Narrative composition: staged scenes (stage, mythological gathering, festival tableau) appear more often than plain portraits alone.
- Pattern/textile translation: cloisonné and gongbi surface patterns read as textile/embroidery-like decoration (02, 04, 07).
- Toy/cultural-product translation: the same personification-in-regalia vocabulary transfers across poster, toy-concept, and museum-grade commemorative object.

9 Do / Don't

Do

Don't

- Default to gold accenting for premium/cultural character or object work
- Give personified animals imperial-court regalia and gentle, rounded expressions
- Use ornate framing for hero/portrait pieces
- Apply cloisonné-style rendering for heritage-artifact briefs specifically
- Treat product photography as a legitimate separate discipline

- Assume one fixed illustration technique — at least 4 distinct styles observed
- Over-claim the stipple (§8) or ink-wash (§8) register as stable — each is 1 work
- Assume the toy/plush concept pieces are photos of real manufactured products — they are illustrated concept designs

10 Agent Design Guide

For a downstream generation agent

1. Decide whether the brief calls for a character/IP treatment or a product-photography treatment — both are real, evidenced competencies.
2. For character work, personify the subject with imperial-court-style regalia (robe, jeweled pendant) and a gentle, rounded, large-eyed expression.
3. Default to gold as the unifying premium accent, regardless of which specific rendering technique is chosen.
4. For heritage-artifact or museum-collaboration briefs, use cloisonné-style gold-outline + saturated-fill rendering.
5. Use ornate framing (curtain, medallion, patterned border) for hero/portrait compositions; skip it for scene-based or product-photo work.
6. Do not force one signature illustration style — choose the technique (gongbi, stipple, cloisonné, ink-wash) that fits the brief's specific cultural reference.
